G20's dialectic deadlock

Differing positions on Ukraine have created a nightmare for Indian diplomats seeking consensus for the joint communiqué ahead of the G20 leaders' summit

ASIT RANJAN MISHRA New Delhi, 25 July

uring a tour of the Virupaksha temple in Hampi, the guide encouraged the G20 delegates to make a wish at the sacred stone near the entrance if they were encountering obstacles during the current round of negotiations "There are plenty (of obstacles)," Indian Sherpa Amitabh Kant retorted, prompting laughter from everyone.

As the Sherpas or chief negotiators started discussing the draft joint communiqué in Hampi, India's G20 presidency entered its most critical phase. In early July, the first draft communiqué was circulated to members, based on which 17 hours of gruelling co-drafting sessions were conducted at the scenic world heritage site in Karnataka. India plans to circulate a second draft before the end of July after incorporating the changes put forward by members. Sherpas will meet one last time in Manesar, Haryana, in early September before the leaders gather on September 9-10 in New Delhi to approve or disapprove a joint communiqué.

India played a crucial role in bringing out a joint communiqué at the last year's G20 meet in Bali, Indonesia, Prime Minister Narendra Modi's pronouncement that "today's era must not be of war" was accepted by all members including Russia. Now, however, Russia believes the situation has carefully and tactfully. It is not insisting on joint communiqués at the ministerial levels, settling for chair summaries to avoid a situation where its presidency is dominated by the Russia-Ukraine war dispute. At Hampi, India avoided discussions on the Ukraine war at the group level, while trying to gauge each country's position bilaterally and through "sofa talks".

"The Russia-Ukraine war is not a priority for us. Our priority is development issues. That is why we will discuss it right at the end," Kant said while briefing the media at Hampi. In public, Indian diplomats maintain a tough posture; in private, however, they remain anxious about building a consensus. In case G20 members fail to agree on a common language on the Russia-Ukraine war, it will be the first time since 2008 that any G20 leaders' summit won't have a joint communiqué. India, which has made the presidency a prestige issue, leaving no stone unturned to promote it, would not like such an outcome. While a "joint communiqué" at G20 is not legally binding unlike bilateral, plurilateral or multilateral agreements, it represents the common minimum agenda agreed upon by all members and often paves the way for future multilateral agreements. A "chair's summary", on the other hand, summarises the discussions, highlighting the key decisions made but signals lack of consensus on a few contentious issues. A "chair's statement" is the weakest document from a summit and reflects the personal views of the chair and can't claim to be summarising the discussions. There is a lot of hope for a joint communiqué. I will even bet on it. Some heavy lifting may be required. The ground for that needs to be prepared. We understand that if we don't make any reference about the Ukraine war, then there might not be any outcome," an Indian G20 diplomat said

However, he conceded that things could dramatically change at the last minute. After leaders arrived in Bali for the G20 summit last year, a missile hit Poland and there were suspicions that it may have originated from Russia. The G7 countries huddled for a discussion. Things calmed down after it emerged that it didn't originate from Russia. "Had the missile come from Russia, there might not have been a joint communiqué at Bali," the official added.

While a clear path to a consensus paragraph on the Russia-Ukraine war is not in sight yet, Indian diplomats have readied about half a dozen options to drive consensus. The past declarations may serve as reference points.

The G7 summit in May mentions Russia 23 times and strongly condemns Russia over the Ukraine invasion. However, the Quad summit on the sidelines of the G7 meet agreed to a much moderate language because India is a member. The India-US joint statement during Prime Minister Modi's state visit to the US does not mention the word Russia. "That's why we see scope for reconciliation. Eventually, when it really becomes critically important, we don't see why a communiqué should not emerge," a second Indian diplomat said. "The joint communiqué needs to have an inclusive para on the Russia-Ukraine war with diversity of views. We can't make everybody happy through the joint communiqué. The idea is to make everybody equally unhappy," the first Indian diplomat quipped.

Indian pharma to grow at 7-9% in FY24: ICRA

ANJALI SINGH Mumbai, 25 July

Credit rating agency ICRA has projected steady growth for the Indian pharmaceutical industry, despite headwinds and regulatory challenges. According to a report released on Tuesday, the revenues of ICRA's sample set of 25 Indian companies (which account for tional List of Essential Medici-60 per cent of the overall domestic pharma industry) are expected to grow by 7-9 per cent in FY24, following a Y-o-

Y growth of 10 per cent in FY23. This will be mainly supported by an 8-10 per cent expansion in the domestic market and 6-8 per cent growth in the US market. The overall credit profile of Indian pharmaceutical companies is expected to remain healthy, supported by stable earnings, comfortable leverage and coverage metrics, and a strong liquidity position, according to the report.

Mythri Macherla, assistant vice-president and sector he- momentum in the US market ad, ICRA, said: "The growth in over the medium term."

the US market is expected to moderate to 6-8 per cent in FY24, given the large base and continued mid-high singledigit price erosion for base products. The 8-10 per cent growth in the domestic market in FY24 will be supported by a wholesale price index-linked price hike of 12.1 per cent allowed for products under the Nanes new product introductions and annual price hikes for non-NLEM products."

With several Indian companies receiving official action indicated observations, warning letters and import alerts amid increased inspections by the USFDA, Macherla said that while some facilities of key firms had got warning letters and/or were placed under import alerts, there had been no material impact on their revenues from the US market so far. "However, delayed resolution of the same could impact new launches and revenue growth
